

The power bar,
Always a different flavour,
Always a delicious taste,
It makes you
stronger and braver
with its nutty
and fruity taste.
That is why it is a life-saver.
You need it
on the wall,

A
poem about a life-saving object as big as a
skyscraper,
made of steel.

once used for digging oil, now an island used as shelter.

in the middle of the sea it stands for decades and decades to go. Not thinking of falling apart soon

Deus ex machina, Martha Schewe

Sia Matulla

a welcome drink
a warm distraction
from the cruel cold
the unbearable cold
long lasting shifts 12 hours, everyday
the same torture
until Mary comes

old
old
old

Selim Can Ipe

Lili Göbbels (bottom)
Charlotte Lurweden (head)

A hand-drawn diagram featuring a large circle at the top. Numerous overlapping labels, all written in a cursive style, read "bicycle". On the right side of the circle, there is a red handwritten label "Maastricht". A red arrow originates from the word "Maastricht" and points towards one of the "bicycle" labels on the right edge of the circle.

inspired by The Wall
by John Lanchester

A collection of concrete poetry

Q2 E G1 2023
Gymnasium Rösrath

Finn Schubert